ART COMMUNITY HOLDING FUNDRAISER TO BENEFIT JIM CALDWELL, DENVER ARTIST

(DENVER) Jim Caldwell, a talented visual artist known by many in the Denver arts community was seriously injured in a scooter accident on October 15, 2007 after which he spent weeks in the ICU trauma unit at Denver Health. He is still recovering in Spalding Rehabilitation Hospital in Aurora. Alan Kircher of Artwork Network is coordinating a benefit Thursday, December 13th, 6-9 pm, to raise funds to help with medical and life expenses. "Words cannot describe what an asset Jim Caldwell is to the Denver Arts Community. His art and passion for helping the arts community is immeasurable." Mr. Kircher said.

WHAT: Fundraiser for injured artist and beloved member of the Denver Art Community.

WHO: Artist: Jim Caldwell
Artwork Network
CORE New Art Space

WHEN: Thursday, December 13, 2007 6-9 pm

WHERE: Artwork Network: 855 Inca St.
CORE New Art Space: 900 Santa Fe Dr.

Support and sentiments are pouring in from across the Denver art community. Sandra Phillips of the Sandra Phillips Gallery said, "Jim is an extraordinary person and one of Denver's most patient and relentless arts advocates. Jim always supported all the other artists in the community not just his own work." Bobbi Walker of Walker Fine Arts (commenting on Jim's newspaper "The Advocate", covering the Denver art scene) said, "Jim Caldwell is an incredible asset to the Denver Art Community. His diligence in pursuing a wide breadth of documentation of the diversity that is Denver's art scene, has been inspiring."

Come and see Jim Caldwell's work, there will be beer from Breckenridge Brewery, food, live music and art from Santa Fe District artists. Join us in a silent auction of art, gift certificates to restaurants and art supply stores, and a 50/50 drawing. Several galleries will open for this event.
